BLM Grand Junction invites comments on pipeline project near DeBeque

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. — The Bureau of Land Management's Grand Junction Field Office is accepting public comment on the proposed Logan Wash Pipeline Project, which is about six miles north of DeBeque.

Enterprise Gas Processing, LLC is proposing to construct and operate the 6.3-mile 16-inch natural gas pipeline. About 3.3 miles of the pipeline would be constructed on BLM lands, the remainder would be on private lands. The pipeline would connect the Oxy Natural Gas Processing Plant and a compressor to the Great Divide Pipeline. The proposed pipeline would run south paralleling an existing pipeline.

BLM will be preparing an environmental assessment and is accepting public comments on the proposal through Sept. 10, 2008, to identify any issues or concerns. The environmental assessment and decision record are expected to be completed later this year.
